LAW SCHOOL OF THE CINCINNATI COLLEGE.

THE Nineteenth Annual Course of Lectures will commence on Wednesday, the 20th of October, 1852, and will continue till the 20th of April, 1853.

The course of instruction is designed to prepare students for the practice of the law, so that gentlemen, immediately upon their graduation, can be admitted to the bar, and enter upon the practical duties of their profession, with a sufficient acquaintance with all the details of business to conduct a suit from its commencement to its final decision in the Supreme Court of the United States. With this view, a moot court will be holden by one of the professors once in each week, or oftener, at which students will be required to prepare pleadings, furnish briefs, and make oral arguments Besides this, there will be a daily exercise, consisting of lectures by the professors, and of recitations in the text-books, which are embraced in the course.

No examination, and no particular course of previous study, is required for admission.

The students will be expected to furnish themselves with the following text-books, the last editions of which are recommended:—Walker's Introduction to American Law, (second edition;) Kent's Commentaries, (seventh edition;) Blackstone's Commentaries, of which Wendell's edition is recommended; Greenleaf on Evidence, vol. 1; Smith's Mercantile Law, Holcombe and Gholson's edition of which is recommended; Gould on Pleading; and Jeremy's Equity.

Students can have access, for the purpose of reference, to the Cincinnati Bar Library, free of charge, at the expense of the Faculty.

At the close of the term, the students will be examined by a Committee of the Bar of Cincinnati, consisting of at least five gentlemen, and upon those whom they report to be qualified to practice law, the Board of Trustees will confer the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

The requisites for admission to the Bar in Ohio, are citizenship, majority, good moral character, two years' study, and an examination by a Committee of the Bar. But by the Charter of this College, that examination is dispensed with, as to those who have attended the full course of studies here, and have graduated, and have studied 15 months in addition to the term.

The course will embrace all the usual titles and subjects of Common and Statute Law, Equity, and Admiralty.

The tuition fee is $60 for the term, in advance, from which terms no variation can be made, nor any deduction for absence, unless it is occasioned by sickness. An additional fee of $5 is charged as a graduation fee, to all who take a degree. Gentlemen can not matriculate for any period short of the full term. Those who have matriculated for one term, may attend any subsequent terms free of charge.

Board and lodging may be had here, in respectable houses, at from $2 50 to $3 per week.

Any additional information in regard to the school will be cheerfully given, upon application, by letter or otherwise, to the Dean of the Faculty.

Address, M. E. CURWEN, 11 Law Buildings, Cincinnati.
